Force Marge

The Force Marge menu is used to combine several data that have different CRNs into the same CRN.

In the Force marge menu, there are two views that he took from the GC tada and the original data. In the GC data view, we can select some data to be combined with the CRN, and when we click on the data in the GC, the data will appear in the original view according to the same CRN. After that we can click the Marge icon which is marked with a yellow color as shown in the image below:

After clicking the eating marge icon, a success alert will appear as below: